MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF St. Stephen

St. Stephen was incorporated in 1871, but was settled long before. From the Passamaquoddy people, to French explorers, to Loyalists, the area has seen a lot of change, and lot of various economic activity. Fish, lumber, shipbuilding, and manufacturing have all sustained our town. Today, while historical candymaker Ganong continues to be a major employer in town, many small business have opened in recent years and are now an important part of our economy.

Whether for an afternoon, a day, or overnight, you'll fall in love with the small-town warmth of St. Stephen. Stop by on your way, and you'll find lots of great shops and restaurants to discover. Make us your travel destination, and you'll also find a cozy place to stay the night. Either way, you'll be charmed by what you find.

WAR MEMORIAL CENOTAPH

ST. STEPHEN RURAL CEMETERY

The cemetery was incorporated in April 1856 and covers 65 acres of land with over 11500 burials. The cemetery is located in St. Stephen north of Hayman Avenue, just east of the junction of Highways 725 and 735.

St. Stephen's first settlers arrived many thousands of years ago while inland portions of North America were still locked in the last great Ice Age. Their descendants, the Passamaquoddy people, called the area Schoodic, which means, "fire place" or "where it burns".

They valued it greatly as an important fishing place and tribal burial ground. After the end of the American Revolutionary War in 1783, Loyalists settled in St. Stephen and started to make it one of the Northeast's major lumbering and shipbuilding centers. Hundreds of ships took shape in local shipyards.

St. Stephen was incorporated as a town in 1871. The addition of railroads to the area added another facet to St. Stephen's heritage by providing transportation to serve the burgeoning manufacturing sector. At one time the town was home to factories producing many goods, namely soap, shoes, baskets, axes, cigars, carriages, and of course chocolate. The architecture and some of the enterprises of this era can still be seen in St. Stephen. While times have changed, the perseverance of the people and diversification of its economic base have allowed the town to thrive.

Canada's Chocolate Town

In 1873 brothers James and Gilbert Ganong opened a grocery store in St. Stephen. When it almost failed, they added candy—then considered a rare specialty item—to the list of wares for sale, and it started flying off the shelves. So, they started to make their own candy to sell in the store. From this modest beginning, Ganong Bros. Ltd. grew dramatically, and by 1930 the company was a major corporation employing 700 people. Ganong is still a major employer in our town.

www.ganong.com

In 1990, Ganong moved into its new factory. Their previous factory became the Chocolate Museum in 1999.

Located in the historic Ganong candy factory, the Chocolate Museum offers an interactive way to learn about candy making. Explore the history of the Ganong family and the wonder of chocolate with hands-on exhibits, vintage chocolate boxes, and antique candy-making equipment and machines.

You can even peek into the studio where Ganong's famous hand dippers still craft chocolates the way they have for more than one hundred years.

Book a tour for some in-depth history of the Ganong Chocolatier, or stop in to the shop to purchase your favourite confectionary!
